

Maria Deligianni, National Director, Eastern Mediterranean, CLIA

Maria Deligianni is National Director, Eastern Mediterranean for the Cruise Lines International Association (CLIA) based in Athens, Greece. She joined CLIA in March 2018 and is responsible for government and public affairs in the region.

Maria has been involved in the shipping industry since 2011. Before joining CLIA, she worked for the European Community Shipowners' Associations (ECSA) in Brussels as a Senior Advocacy and Policy Advisor on maritime safety, environmental and offshore shipping issues.

Previously she spent time at the European Commission's Director General Mobility and Transport Directorate in Brussels as well as SQE Marine Group and PriceWaterhouseCoopers (PwC Greece) in Piraeus and Athens.

She holds an executive Master in Maritime Science (MSc) degree from the University of Ghent in Belgium as well as an MSc degree in International and European Studies from the University of Piraeus and a bachelor's degree in Political Science and Public Administration from the University of Athens.

